Lab 1.5: Your first Project

Time: 20 minutes. Material: handouts/workflow-card.pdf.

A Project keeps saved instructions and reference files together so you do not repeat yourself. If Projects are not available on your plan, paste the instruction block at the start of a new chat instead.

Your Task

1. Choose one repeated task, for example summarising a weekly report or answering a supplier query.
2. Create a new Project and give it a clear name.
3. Write its instructions: the role, the tone, the spelling you want, what it must not do, and when it should ask you a question.
4. Add one reference file that contains no confidential information.
5. Test the Project with two prompts. Make the second one ask for something the files do not contain.
6. Write one line on what you must never put into this Project.

Outcome

You have a working Project with written instructions and a note on what stays out of it.
